Christmas Themed Snow White Pantomime

Roxy Lane Theatre in Maylands presents a jolly Christmas pantomime for all the family to enjoy as we enter this festive season with Snow White and the Seven Christmas Elves, script by UK playwright Alex Jackson Pantomimes.

Snow White is the most talented girl in Christmas Town and Queen Miserables knows it.

The royal Housekeeper Dame Holly Bush and her son Harry Bush create comic mayhem, Fairy Jinglebell is training up the fresh Fairy Frosting to gain her wings, and there's a very special man in the mirror on the block.

When Snow White has to flee from the wicked Queen Miserables, she shelters with seven Christmas elves who work in Santa's workshop building toys. Prince Noel and the others must find her before it's too late.

Directed by Maria Passalacqua, a veteran in the dramatic arts who has spent over 30 years involved in musical, traditional and experimental theatre across Perth and Melbourne, is excited to bring the first traditional pantomime to the Roxy Lane Theatre.

"Having performed in hundreds of pantomimes over the years, I felt the timing was right for a feel-good family production in light of the stress of COVID times", Passalacqua said.

"I'm excited about the energy and fun the show brings and looking forward to good old audience participation that comes with a panto – all the goodies and baddies, singing, booing, hissing and cheering. It's going to be a lot of fun for everyone."
